

Director of Studio

Opportunities

An international team in Spain is working to create media materials that will speak into the hearts of Muslim immigrants. A director of studio is needed to take overall responsibility of the technical side of studio production. As director, you will lead the production team in directing short films, live or recorded television programs, animated videos, commercials, and music videos. You should be able to translate writers' and producers' visions into cohesive, marketable, and informative programs and make creative decisions that guide the rest of the team in turning original ideas into finished programs.

Requirements

- Experience as a director, demonstrated by a portfolio of short films or videos
- Experience with digital technology and editing software
- Familiarity with camera operation, sound systems, special effects, and music editing
- Ability to lead and motivate
- Creativity and imagination
- BSc/BA in film studies, cinematography, or a relevant field; further training is a plus

Location

Spain

Length of Service

- Short term: four weeks to one year
- Long term: two or more years

Ministry Description

The team is committed to identifying the characteristics of certain sectors of a Muslim community and presenting biblical perspectives that respond to their needs, struggles, and questions in culturally sensitive ways. The chief goal is to increase the awareness of certain sectors of a Muslim community about the options that Christianity offers in response to their particular social, psychological, intellectual, and spiritual needs.

Causes

- Media
- Evangelism

Quick Facts

- The target audience of these media projects is various sectors of a Muslim community in Europe. These sectors are defined according to gender, age group (first or second generation), educational level, or common interest within their particular context.
- There are several Christian media initiatives trying to reach out to Muslims. However, these efforts tend to be broad-based, aiming to reach an entire region (such as North Africa or the Middle East) and touch the general needs of the audience.
- There is no ministry fully addressing the particularities of Muslim immigrants. Also, no ministries work on the production of materials dedicated to specific sectors, such as second-generation Muslims, of this community.
