Biography

I am thankful that I have never known life without Christ. I was baptized as an infant, and my parents promised to raise me to know God. They made church and family devotions a priority, and, through that, taught me to know God and how to live for Him. My journey of faith will be lifelong. In 2002, I was confirmed in my home church and claimed my faith in the Lord. For me, God has always been like the perfect parent—Someone I've always been able to trust, Someone who loves me for who I am yet knows who I can be, and Someone who will always provide for me and take care of me.

In high school, I participated in as many missions trips as possible, and those trips changed my life. They showed me the need for Christ in the U.S. and around the world. At the end of my last missions trip before college, I felt God nudging me. During our morning prayer time, I asked God if He wanted me to be involved in missions throughout my life. He answered with Isaiah 6:8, "Then I heard the voice of the Lord saying, 'Whom shall I send? And who will go for us?' And then I said, 'Here am I. Send me!'" I knew my answer was the same as Isaiah's. This call was strengthened and confirmed during college as I submitted to God's leading and timing.

After graduating from Asbury University (Kentucky), I began working at the Indianapolis, Indiana, office of an accounting firm that serves Christian nonprofit organizations across the United States. I gained valuable experience in learning the nuances and best practices in nonprofit accounting. After working at the accounting firm for nearly three years, my passion and call to be involved in bringing God glory abroad did not fade.

Growing up as the daughter of a children's ministry director at my home church, I had many experiences helping teach children the basics of the faith in VBS, Sunday School, and camp counseling. In college, I served as a Spiritual Life assistant and Spiritual Life coordinator in my dorm, leading and mentoring my classmates. I am excited to merge these experiences in Honduras by teaching basic financial principles that will help people glorify God through the stewardship and use of the resources He has provided.
