Biography

"I will go. Here I am, Lord. Send me."

From a young age, the Lord began calling me to follow His will. Many times, He used the influence of others in my life. Most evident is my strong, Christian family with generational roots of pastors and missionaries. When I was in middle school, the Lord called me to go on multiple short-term trips in the U.S. and abroad which lasted throughout high school. I began seeing perspectives from the global church and seeing God's heart for all peoples, tribes, tongues, and nations to be reached by the Good News and light of Jesus.

When I started attending Asbury University, I began growing immensely in my faith and practicing ministry even more on and off campus. I participated in a three-month midterm experience with WGM in Paraguay during the summer of 2021. The Holy Spirit met me countless times through various ministries and miracles I witnessed. The call of God was so evident in the middle of that summer to return to Paraguay full-time to serve others so they might know Jesus. Jesus called me very clearly and said, "Will you serve with me for my kingdom's cause, Gabe? Will you shine my light in the darkest places?"

I am in ministry today because I feel a deep sense of urgency and importance to meet the needs of others in the name of Jesus while also evangelizing and discipling them. Saying yes to Jesus opens many doors for the purpose of His kingdom and Gospel to reach all people.

I will be helping in discipleship ministries through the local church with youth and young adult ministries, prison ministry, and wherever the Lord leads. I also plan to partner with Andy Bowen by serving in First Nations (indigenous peoples) communities through church planting and community development.
