Biography

I was born and raised as a missionary child in Burundi, Africa. Although I gave my heart to Christ at an early age, it was not until after graduating from Asbury College (Kentucky) and medical technology training that I really believed that God loved me and wanted to use me. In 1976, God led me to Tenwek Hospital in Kenya to fill in for a year as a medical technologist. Two years later, I returned to Kenya as a full-time missionary.

I have been involved in the laboratory as a bench technologist, laboratory director, principal tutor of the laboratory training school, and laboratory consultant. I have seen the laboratory evolve from a small manual lab to a large, partly automated laboratory with 30 staff. I have also been involved in discipleship groups, local churches, Bible studies, and friendship ministries.

Recently, I have been working in the laboratory as a lab consultant in the areas of quality control, machine maintenance, documentation and upgrading toward accreditation, implementation of a new electronic medical records system, and continuing education. I have also served as the women's co-leader of Tenwek Hospital's chapel.

My desire is to serve the Lord wherever and however He directs and to strive each day to share His unfailing love with individuals He brings into my sphere of influence.
