Biography

I was born into a Christian home and became a Christian at a young age. After graduating from college, I was a youth leader in my home church. In November 2007, God called me to serve Him as a missionary.

Praying and researching led me to World Gospel Mission, where I started to look at various mission fields. The Lord led me to serve on the American Indian Field in 2008. In 2010, I was called specifically to the Navajo Reservation. I arrived in New Mexico in 2011, and soon God started to place a true love in me for the people.

I love learning more about Navajo culture and history by spending time and sharing in ministry with them. The kids keep me on my toes, and I love to see how they grow in the Lord through their prayers and asking questions.
