Biography

Brady: I grew up in the church and received my call into missions as a young teenager while traveling. After having the call to missions placed on my heart, I took every measure to avoid it. During the past few years, God has reminded me of His calling, and I have finally accepted this direction for my life.

Alicia: I spent a few months in Africa and felt God's call that I would come back and serve. After Brady and I were married, God continued to solidify the calling to do missions and continued to open the door to return to Africa and serve.
